DETAILED ACTION

This office action is responsive to the Request for Continued Examination filed August 23, 2007. Claims 1, 3, 9 and 17 are currently amended. Claims 1-24 remain pending in this application.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

1. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

2. Claims 1-5, 7, 9-14, 16-22 and 24 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Dutta et al. (US Patent Application Publication 2002/0103914 A1) ('Dutta').

With respect to claims 1, 9 and 17, Dutta teaches:

accessing said web page comprising content (paragraphs 33, 35 and 134); processing the web page through a filter wherein the filter transfers the content of the web page to an analyzer (paragraphs 34, 37 and 135);

analyzing the content of the web page at said analyzer, wherein said analyzing is distinct from said processing (paragraphs 37, 126-128 and 135); returning a result of said analyzing to a server (paragraphs 127 and 135); appending the result of said analyzing to the content of said web page (paragraph 137); and displaying said web page and said result (paragraphs 135 and 137).

With respect to claims 2, 10 and 18, Dutta teaches wherein said accessing said web page comprising content is performed by an application server operating on a first computing system (paragraphs 19 and 35-36).

With respect to claim 3, Dutta teaches wherein said filter is a function of the application server (paragraphs 19 and 35), wherein said filter is selectively activated by a webpage development tool accessible to said first computing system (paragraphs 133-135).

With respect to claims 4, 12 and 20, Dutta teaches wherein said server and said filter operate in said first computing system (paragraph 134).

With respect to claims 5, 14 and 22, Dutta teaches wherein said analyzer operates on a second computing system that is communicatively coupled with said first computing system (Figures 1A and 1B, paragraphs 19, 34 and 37).

With respect to claims 7, 16 and 24, Dutta teaches wherein said filter transfers content of the web page to the analyzer in a hypertext mark-up language (HTML) format (paragraph 33).

With respect to claims 11 and 19, Dutta teaches wherein said filter is a function of the application server (paragraphs 19 and 35).

With respect to claims 13 and 21, Dutta teaches wherein said request for said web page is generated by a browser operating on said first computing system (paragraph 35).

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

3. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

4. Claims 6, 8, 15 and 23 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Dutta et al. (US Patent Application Publication 2002/0103914 A1) ('Dutta') in view of Markel et al. (US Patent Application Publication 2002/0156799 A1) ('Markel').

With respect to claims 6, 15 and 23, Dutta teaches claims 1, 9 and 17.

Dutta does not teach wherein said analyzer analyzes said content of said web page for compliance with federal law.

Markel teaches a system and method for verifying and correcting websites (see abstract), in which he teaches wherein said analyzer analyzes said content of said web page for compliance with federal law (paragraph 74).

It would have been obvious to a person having ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to have modified Dutta by the teaching of Markel because wherein said analyzer analyzes said content of said web page for compliance with federal law would enable website providers to diagnose, evaluate, report, and retrofit code violations existing in websites to meet both in-house and industry design standards (Markel, paragraph 52).

With respect to claim 8, Dutta as modified teaches wherein said content of said web page is secure (paragraph 107).

Response to Arguments

5. Applicant's arguments filed March 8, 2007 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive. Applicant argues that Dutta does not teach that processing is distinct from analyzing. Examiner disagrees. Dutta teaches that a personalized accessibility evaluation provider receives input, forwards it to a search engine, receives the web page from the search engine, and then passes the content to an evaluator

Art Unit: 2164

(paragraph 133-135); these steps represent processing. The content is then evaluated (analyzed) by the evaluator, thus the processing is distinct from the analyzing.

6. Applicant also argues that Dutta fails to teach "wherein said filter is selectively activated by a webpage development tool accessible to said first computing system". Examiner disagrees. Dutta teaches that filtering is activated by a personalized accessibility evaluation provider (webpage development tool) (paragraphs 19 and 133). The specification defines a webpage development tool as any tool used on a "computing system to construct, modify, evaluate, enhance, reduce, or otherwise manipulate content on a web page." The personalized accessibility evaluation provider may be used to modify web page content (paragraph 145).
